

CONDUCTING A COMPLIANCE AUDIT

24th - 25th September 2019, Kuala Lumpur

Good compliance is the bedrock of modern banking and markets and it is imperative that organisations and individuals involved in these businesses are constantly checking to ensure best practice. In recent years the sheer weight of regulations and the complexity of financial markets have made compliance ever more important.

Our market leading, 2-day course is packed with current examples of compliance failures and their consequences as well as how to audit a compliance department using 'best practice' rules.

KEY HIGHLIGHTS

- Why compliance matters in the modern financial system
- The global regulatory bodies & compliance standards and how they are changing
- 'Best Practice' compliance and creating an audit matrix
- Qualitative & Quantitative issues in your audit
- Testing and identification of internal/external strengths/weaknesses

The course is case-study based and interactive, using recent examples of compliance breaches to allow delegates to work through issues and see the impact of poor compliance in real time.

AGENDA

Day 1

Session One: Compliance in the Financial Industry

- What do we mean by Compliance?
- Regulatory versus non-regulatory terms
- The 'four pillars of compliance'
- Looking at compliance breaches & consequences

By the end of this session, delegates will be able to state the importance of compliance and how regulators view compliance issues.

Session Two: What makes an effective compliance program 1?

- Relationships with regulators
- Policies & procedures
- Forensic issues how to spot weaknesses in P&P
- Worked examples of where P&P fell short of best practice

By the end of this session, delegates will be able to identify the issues with P&P, in compliance terms and how they are only part of the compliance jigsaw.

Session Three: What makes an effective compliance programme 2?

- Culture
- Auditing qualitative measures like culture
- Training & communication
- The difference between risk and revenue
- How can we identify and audit poor culture – the 'Culture Tree'

By the end of this session, delegates will be able to identify the major types of culture within financial institutions fraud as well as examine the effectiveness of cultural measures taken by regulators and senior management.

Session Four: Monitoring

- Frequency of monitoring?
- Sources of data
- Prescriptive or risk-based monitoring?
- Identifying weaknesses in monitoring procedures
- The dangers of over-reliance on software
- Document retention

By the end of this session, delegates will be able to dissect the different of information used in compliance monitoring and examine where monitoring has been of prime importance in exposing compliance weaknesses

Day 2

Session One: Reporting

- The '5-Ws' of reporting
- Too much information?
- Effective whistleblowing
- Testing incentives and discipline
- Are 'red flags' effectively reported and acted upon?

By the end of this session, delegates will be able to identify the importance of effective reporting and whistleblowing procedures including whether there is the right balance between discipline and incentives.

Session Two: Other Checks

- Employee checks inc. the Board
- Resource adequacy
- 'Secret shopper' vs surprise checks
- Security checking
- IT checks

By the end of this session, delegates will be able to chart the major checks that need to be done in an effective compliance audit as well as the outside agencies who might be able to help in this.

Session Three: Identifying Compliance & Regulatory Weak Points

- Clients/customers/counterparties
- Products & services
- Technology
- Risk management & Internal Audit

By the end of this session, delegates will be able to state the major compliance vulnerabilities that need to be stress tested in an audit and examine solutions.

Session Four: Creating a Template for a 'Best Practice' Compliance Audit

- During this session, delegates will use the knowledge and skills acquired throughout the day to create a template of 'best practice' for identifying & dealing with compliance issues and how these can be identified in an audit. To do this, they will work in groups but prepare their own action plan to take away.
- This session re-enforces the key points taught throughout the day and ensures that new skills are embedded for the future.
